STABLE AND FAST CONNECTIVITY FOR CUSTOMERS OF THE SIX SENSES ROME THANKS TO INWIT

New indoor DAS coverage provides a reliable multi-operator connection for all guest needs.

Rome, 21 January 2025 – INWIT, one of Italy's leading digital infrastructure companies, has completed the installation of a DAS (Distributed Antenna System) at the luxury hotel Six Senses Rome in Piazza di San Marcello, along Via del Corso. INWIT's multi-operator digital infrastructure for indoor locations guarantees stable and efficient mobile network coverage for all active operators, ensuring high-level connectivity for guests and resolving the connection issues inside the historic building, where, due to the structure of the walls, the quality of communications did not live up to the services offered by the hotel. The installation in Rome marks the first step in a wider collaboration between INWIT and the Six Senses Group to improve the connection experience of its customers.

The DAS covers an area of 3,846 square metres thanks to 15 mini-antennas connected to a single active repeater, which enables the mobile technology, ensuring a reliable connection for all guest and staff's needs across all devices (mobile phones, tablets and PCs).

The infrastructure has blended discreetly and respectfully with the architecture of the Six Senses Rome, integrating perfectly with the design of Palazzo Salviati Cesi Mellini, the hotel's home. Indeed, the DAS solution is known for the compact size of its micro-antennas and minimal visual impact, which is ideal for settings of high artistic and architectural value.

"With this new installation, INWIT confirms its ability to enable digitalisation in indoor environments, including those of great tourist and architectural value. Our mission is to offer multi-operator, shared and high-performance infrastructure to improve connectivity even in the most prestigious hotels", said Lucio Golinelli, INWIT's Commercial Director.

Nicola Finamore, IT Manager at Six Senses Rome, said: "Working with a strategic partner like INWIT consolidates the cutting-edge technology of the services offered to our customers. Destinations like our urban oasis, where luxury and technology come together to satisfy growing needs, must constantly provide the tools necessary to keep connected and in touch at any time of day".

INWIT

INWIT, one of Italy's leading digital infrastructure companies, builds and manages digital and shared infrastructure that enable the connectivity of mobile telecommunications. Its assets consist of an integrated ecosystem of macro-grids (approximately 25,000 towers) and micro-grids (nearly 600 dedicated DAS for indoor coverage), which host 4G and 5G devices of the main mobile operators, FWAs and IoT sensors. INWIT is contributing to a more efficient deployment of the telco ecosystem, which is fundamental for the digital transition and 5G. It is also committed to reducing the digital divide through implementing the "Italia 5G" Plan of the NRRP. INWIT is listed on the Italian stock exchange in the FTSE MIB index.

About Six Senses Rome

The Group's first hotel in Italy, Six Senses Rome is a green oasis amidst the bustling street of Via del Corso. Just a short walk away from iconic monuments like the Pantheon and the Trevi Fountain, the hotel is situated in an exceptional location in Rome's historic centre, a UNESCO World Heritage site. The hotel's 96 rooms and suites are located inside Palazzo Salviati Cesi Mellini, a 15th-century building that has been changed and extended many times over the years. Six Senses Rome offers contemporary Italian and local food in an all-day dining area, plus a tremendous rooftop with a 360° panorama of the historic neighbourhood. The Six Senses Spa features Roman baths with a caldarium, tepidarium and frigidarium, a modern-day take on the ancient ritual. Among other services, there are five treatment rooms, including one for couples, a Hammam, biohacking and meditation spaces, an outdoor yoga deck and fitness centre.
